Between its cover you will find someone you know . . .

A familiar place . . .

and a memory of something you have done . . .

We hope
as you look at the story . . .

Of
2.H.S. during 1978-1979
you will spend many happy hours in reveries —
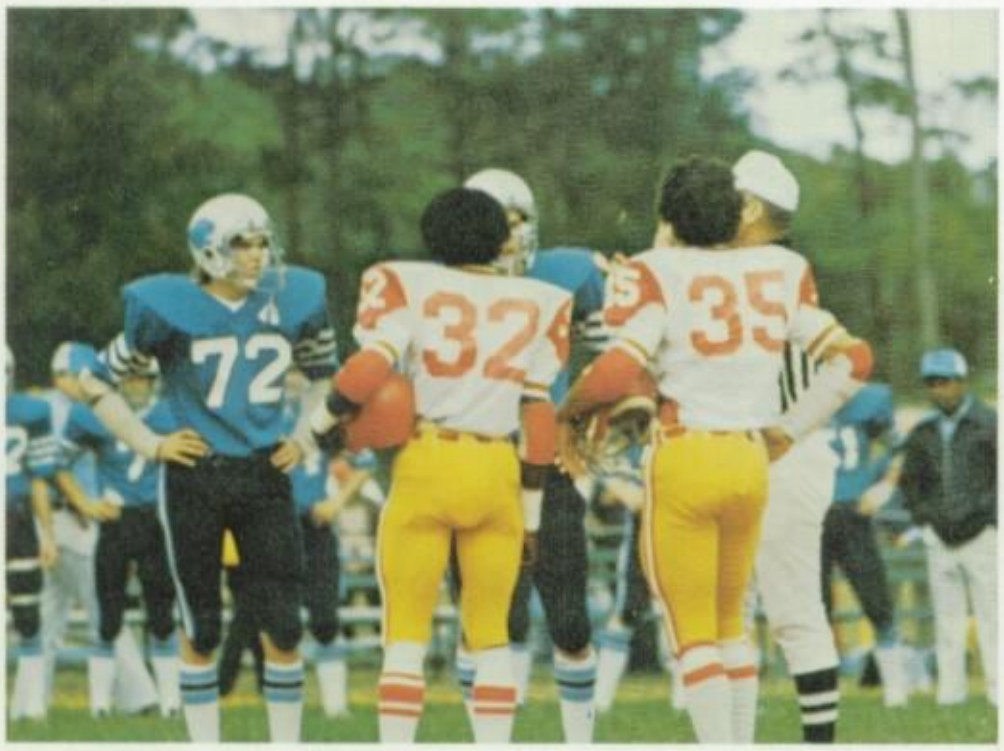
reliving classes,



Projects, athletic contests . . .

and most of all

remembering friends. — taken from Boondocker 1958

Over Homecoming Festivities

The crowning of the king, marking an end to the homecoming festivities, took place at the dance. The king candidates were Chuck Hatmaker, Terry Drew, and John Shannon. Below are Queen Michelle Hatmaker, and King Chuck Hatmaker.

Homecoming 1978

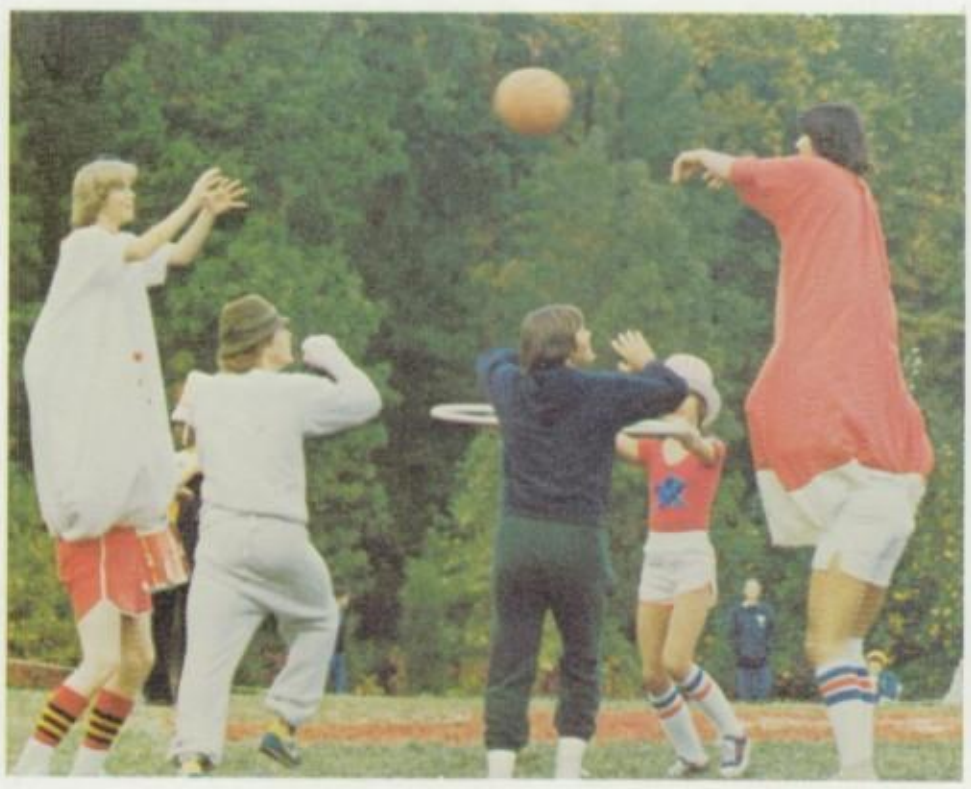
The annual homecoming festivities, held on October 7, 1978, began with the crowning of Michelle Hatmaker as Homecoming Queen. The half-time show provided a diversion from the 6-12 defeat at the hands of Pallotti.

Pete Major, Tracie Jones, and Leah Force led us through the various sports.

Sports America

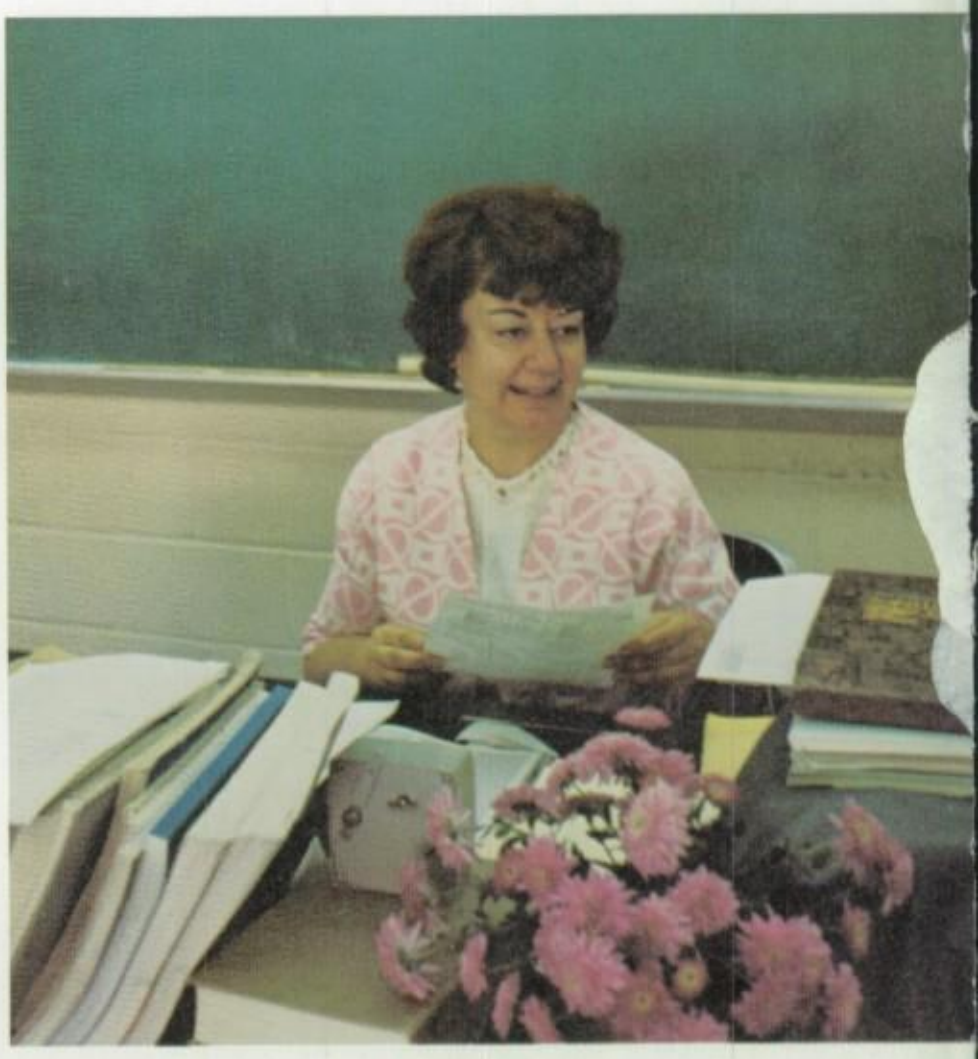
Tracie (center) starts the show off with a bang. Above, she discovers two people over indulging in junk food. Below, in a rigorous game of basketball, Pete and Leah find it difficult to keep up.

Above, jogging on the road back to good health are Pete and Leah. Below, moments before, they could barely lift any weights.



It is with great pleasure that we present your 1979 Boondocker.

The Top Of The Class



To those teachers who have done more than just teach, we, the student body, wish to show our appreciation.

MR. WILLIAM L. MARSHALL: the fun and enjoyment of participating on the athletic teams; the hay rides and other social activities of the Hi Y club; the party after graduation; the difficulty I had in memorizing 150 lines of poetry for senior english; My high school years were great!

Mankind has always relied on strong leaders for guidance. Although times and people change, the basic qualities of true leadership will always remain the same. Such traits as honesty, friendliness, perseverance, and the willingness to help others are needed for one to become a truly effective leader. Though we tend to look back at our noted leaders of the past, we must always move forward and find our leaders of tomorrow.

MR. RUDOLPH KALASKY

MRS. ANNE WALTERS: Delta Delta Tau; Green Parties; Pledge Week!

MRS. PEGGY ANDERSON: passing driver's ed; Junior Class play; all night graduation party!

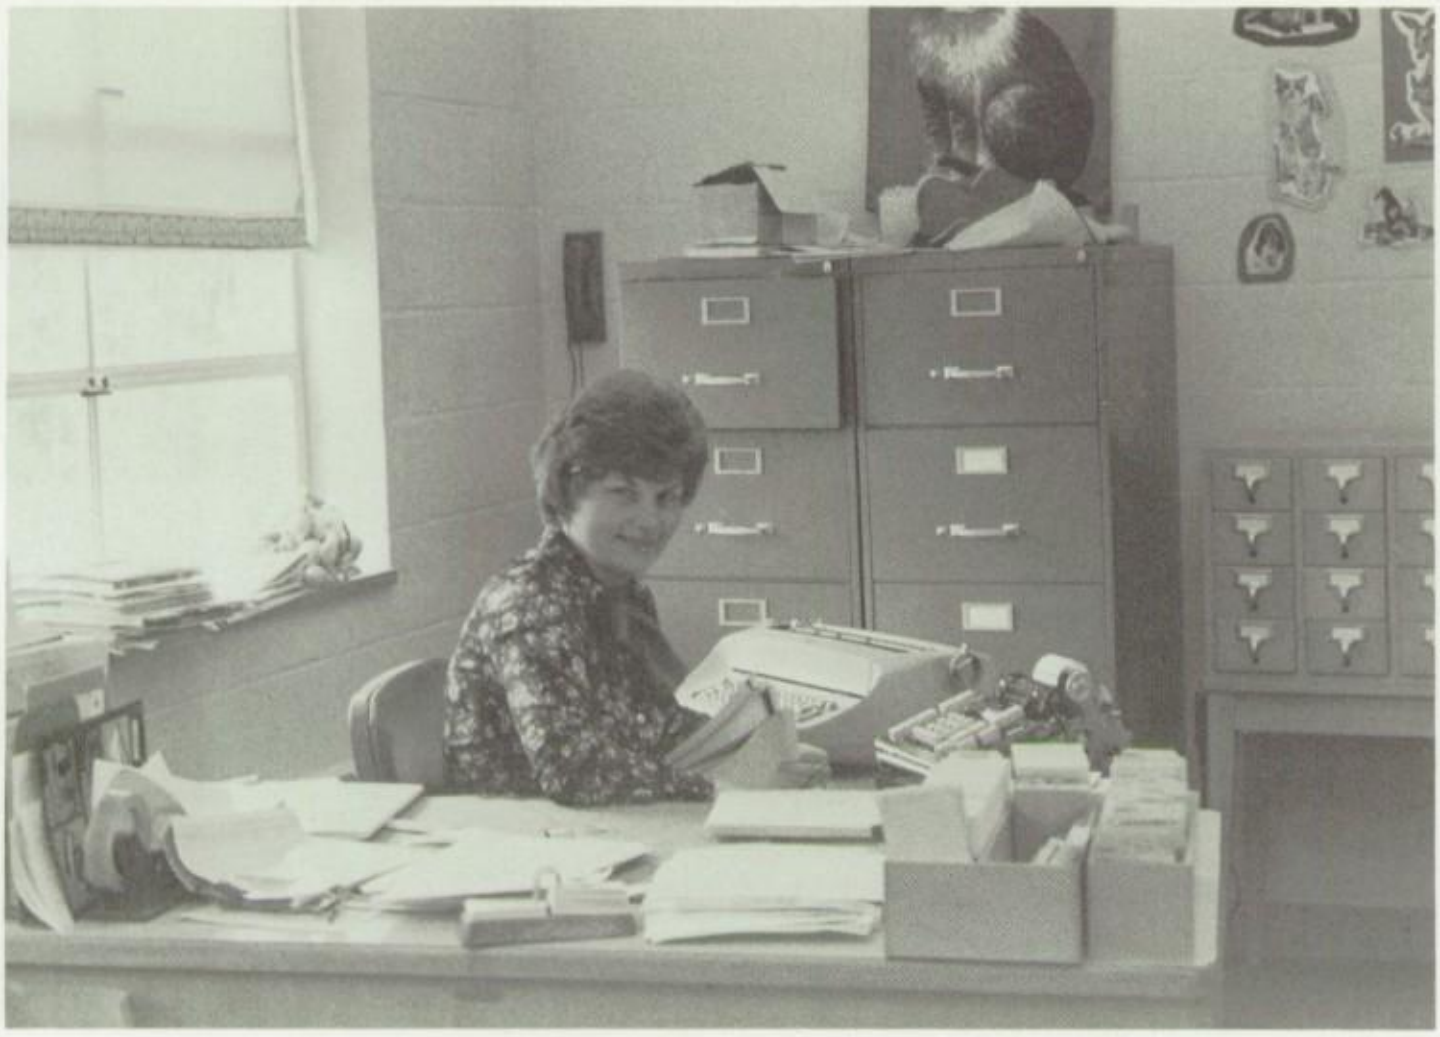
MRS. ALFREDA PARKER

MRS. VIRGINIA CISNEROS: music; my boyfriend; (became my husband)!

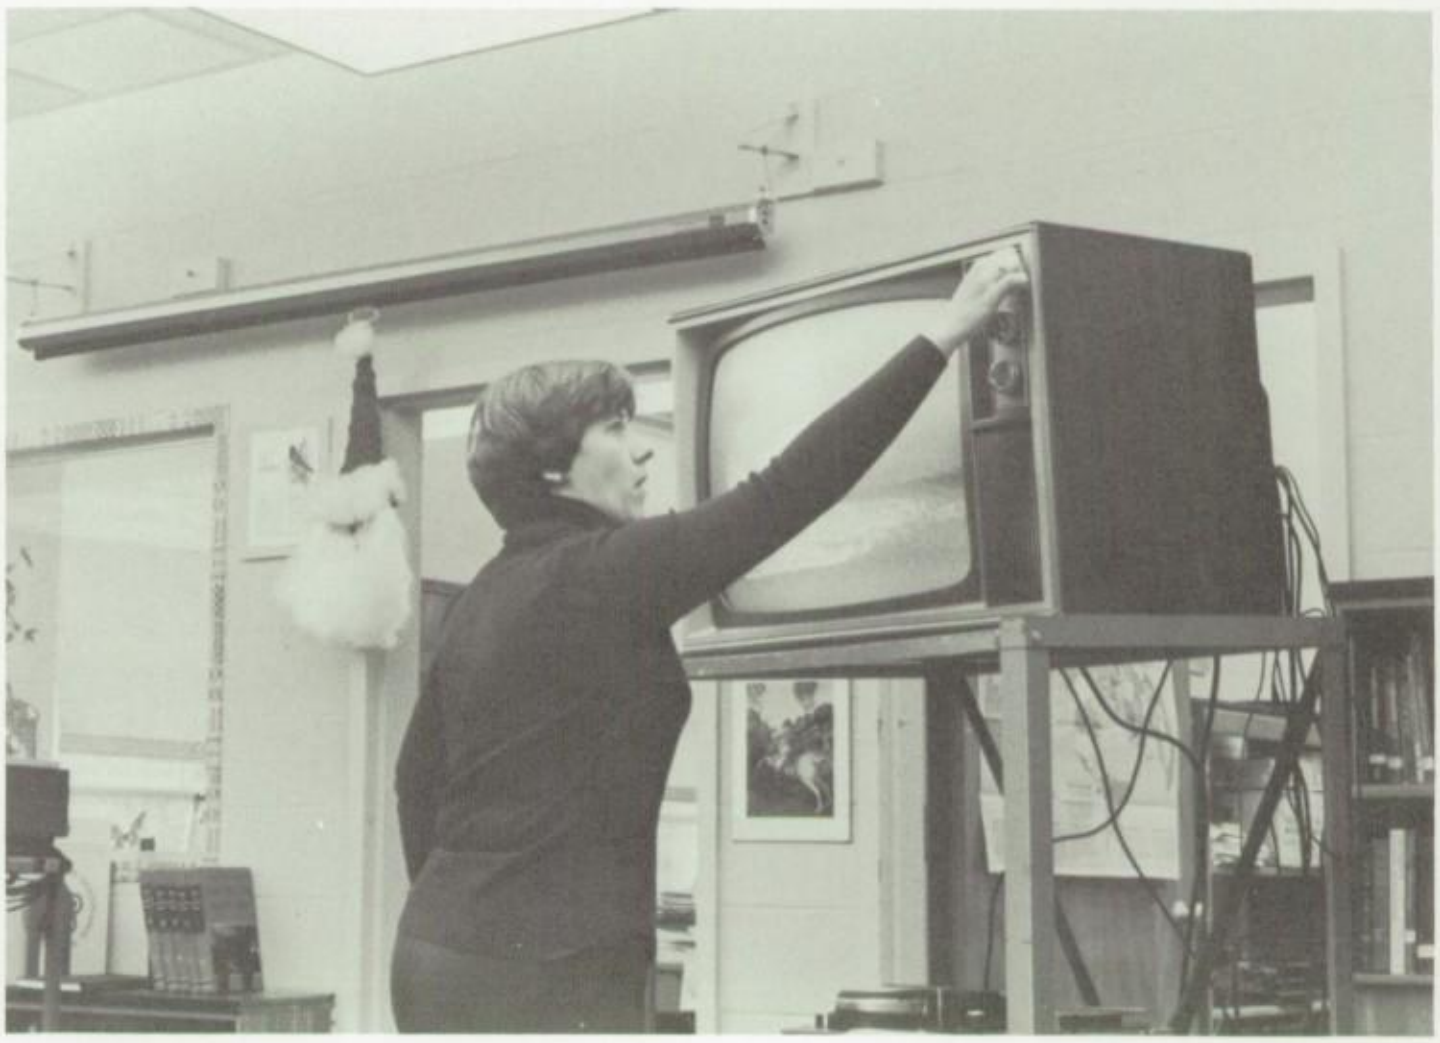
MRS. PAM O'NEILL

MISS CHARLOTTE VAUGHAN: working as a member of the yearbook staff, participating in intramural sports, and competing in musical contests; gradation and anticipation of college; going to the drug store for lunch!

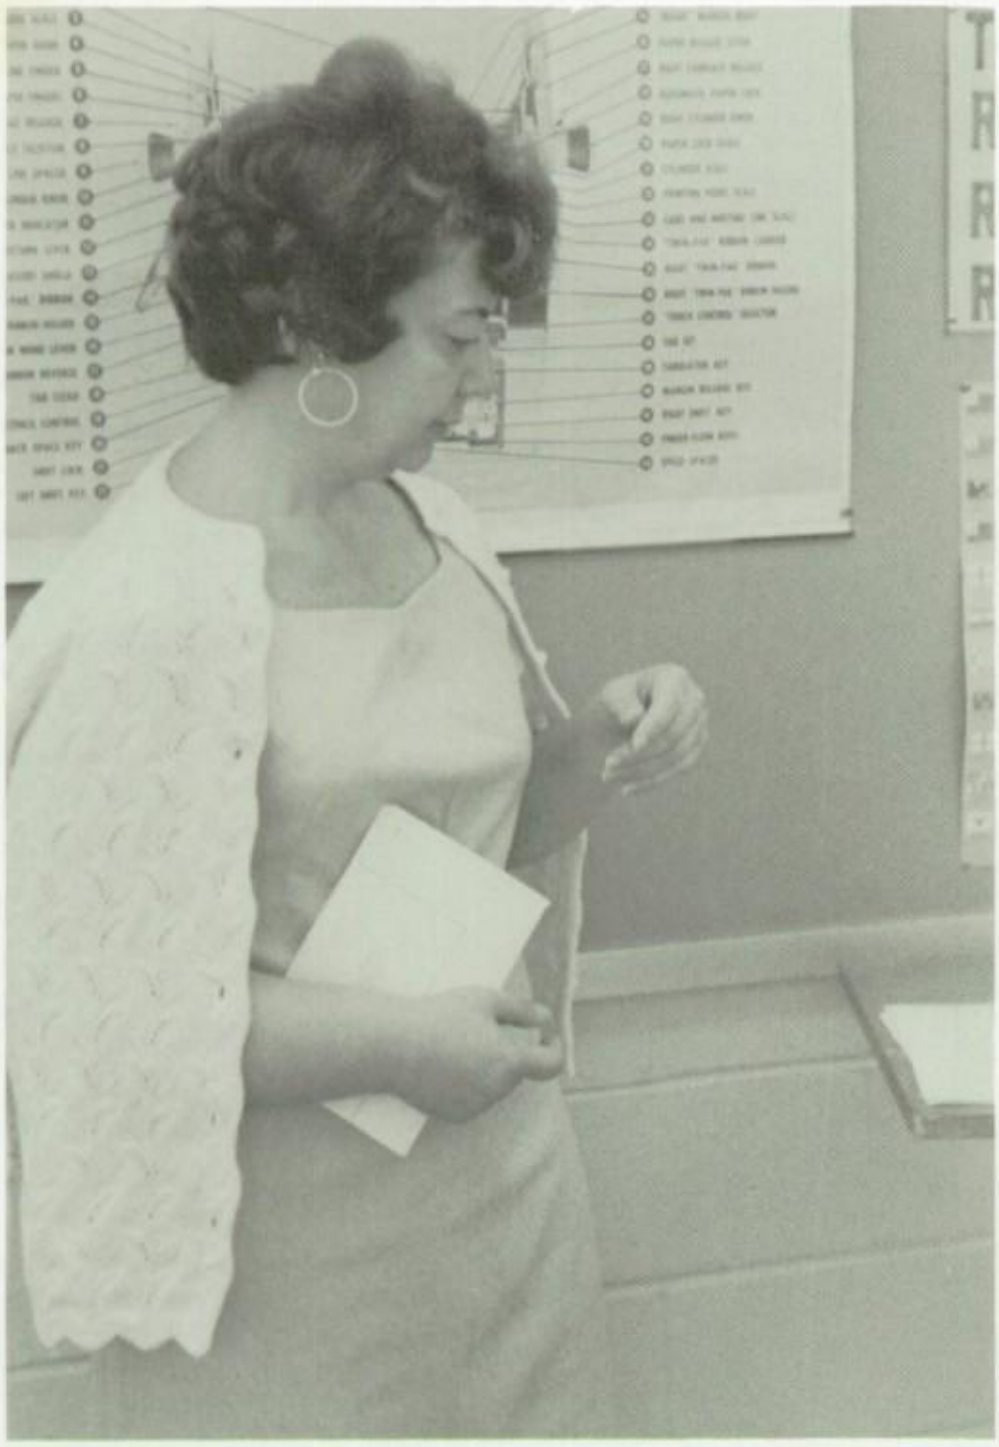
MRS. MYRTLE RICHARDSON: Being first runner up for Miss E.O. Smith (E.O. Smith Jr. High School); being selected for Who's Who Among Negro High School Students; during special assemblies styling of garments which I made!



MRS. ROCHELLE GREY: my first beer party; strict mother; graduation!



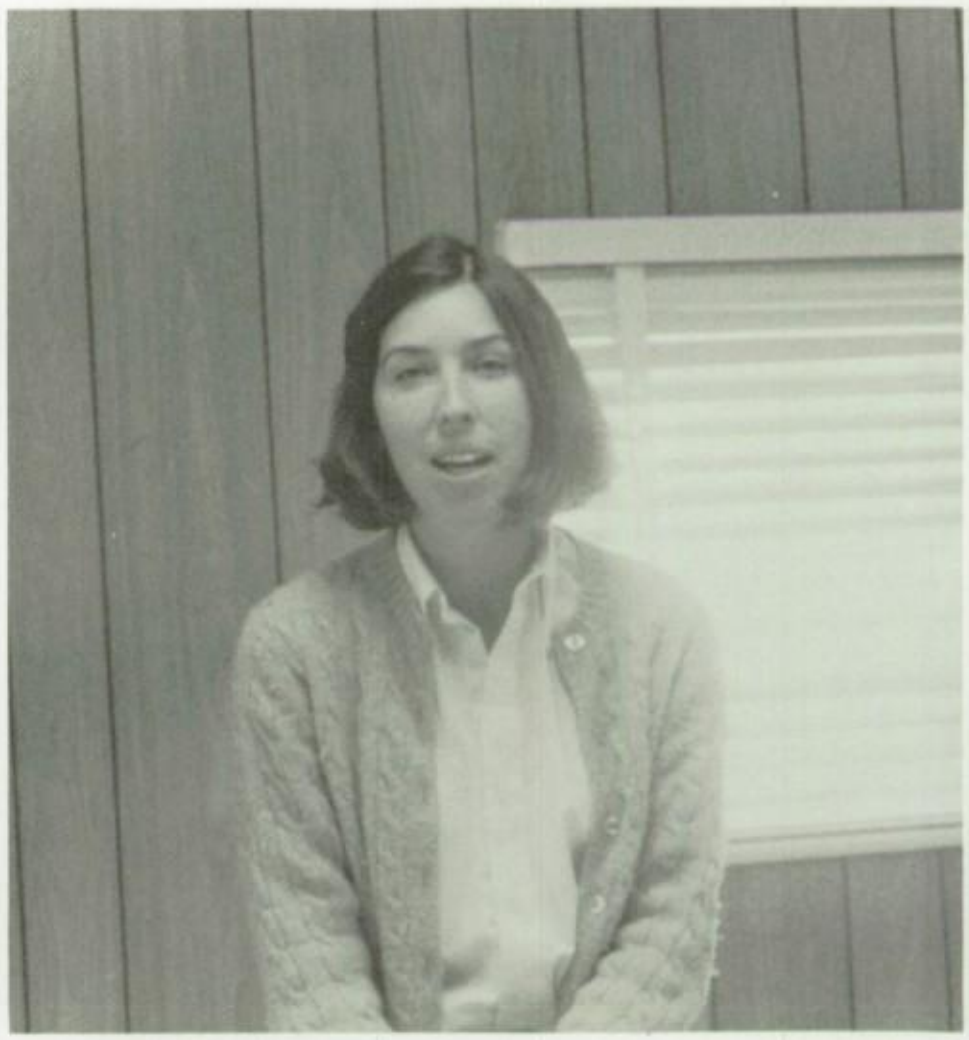
MRS. BARBARA FUTRELL: being in plays and operetta; competing in sports!



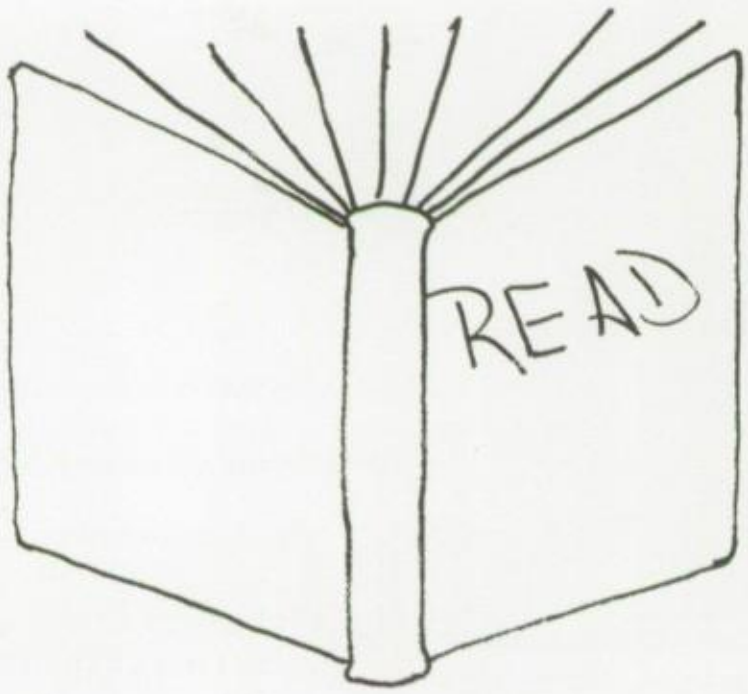
The spirit of human kindness has been alive since time began. Without this spirit, life would be no where near as pleasant or possibly non existant. Great riches are not acquired from the giving of this gift of kindness, but the pleasure of giving it is greater than any amount of money. The spirit of kindness, thriving through the years, will continue on into the future as long as time itself.

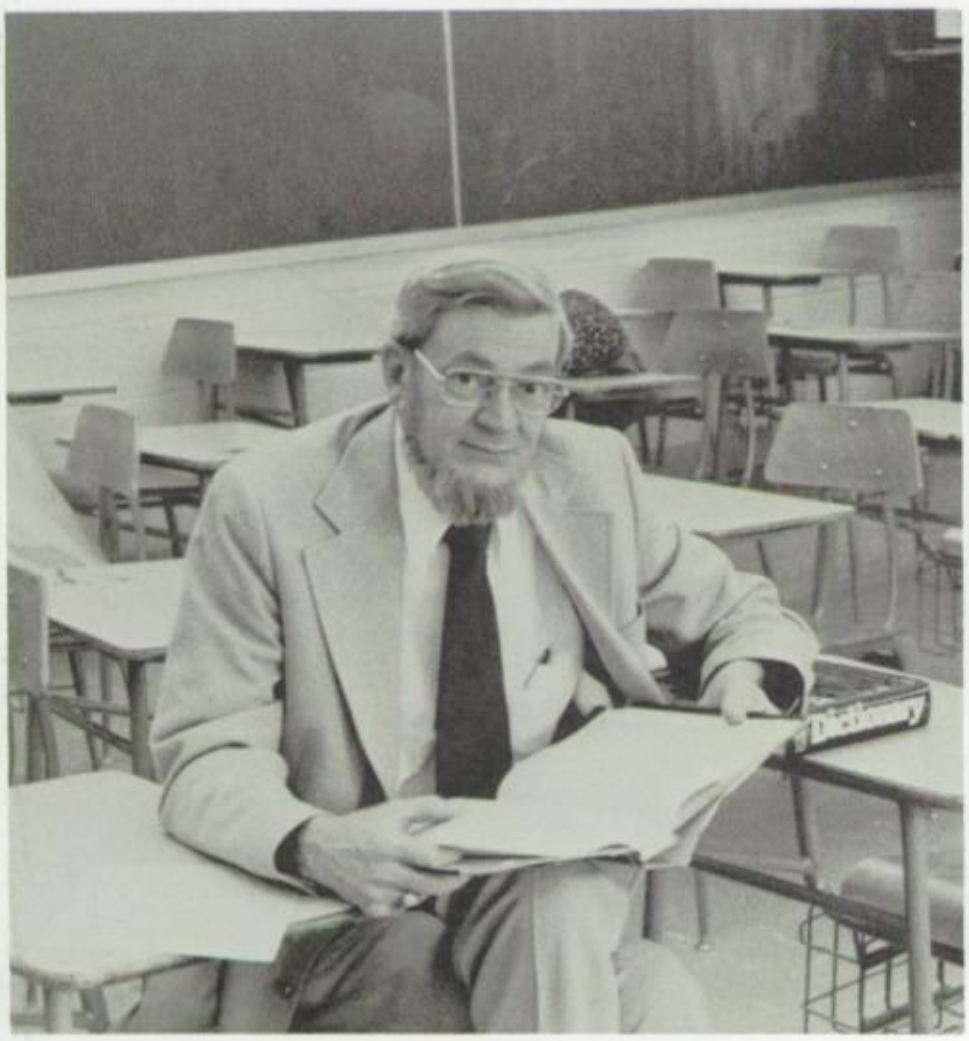
MRS. JULIE STEGER: waking up on Christmas morning and finding snow!; seeing the Barnum and Bailey circus at the Madison Square Garden in New York City — and also the Macy's Thanksgiving Parade on top of my father's shoulders (also in New York City); going on our Senior Picnic to the Catskill Mountains (and several days later getting poison ivy!)

MRS. MEREDITH EXNICIOS: having a lead in the musical, "The Boyfriend"; on the first Saturdays of spring, studying outside with a group of friends and suddenly starting and continuing one of the best water fights ever with hoses and buckets of water; working Junior Class concessions at the Basketball Tournament which our school won.

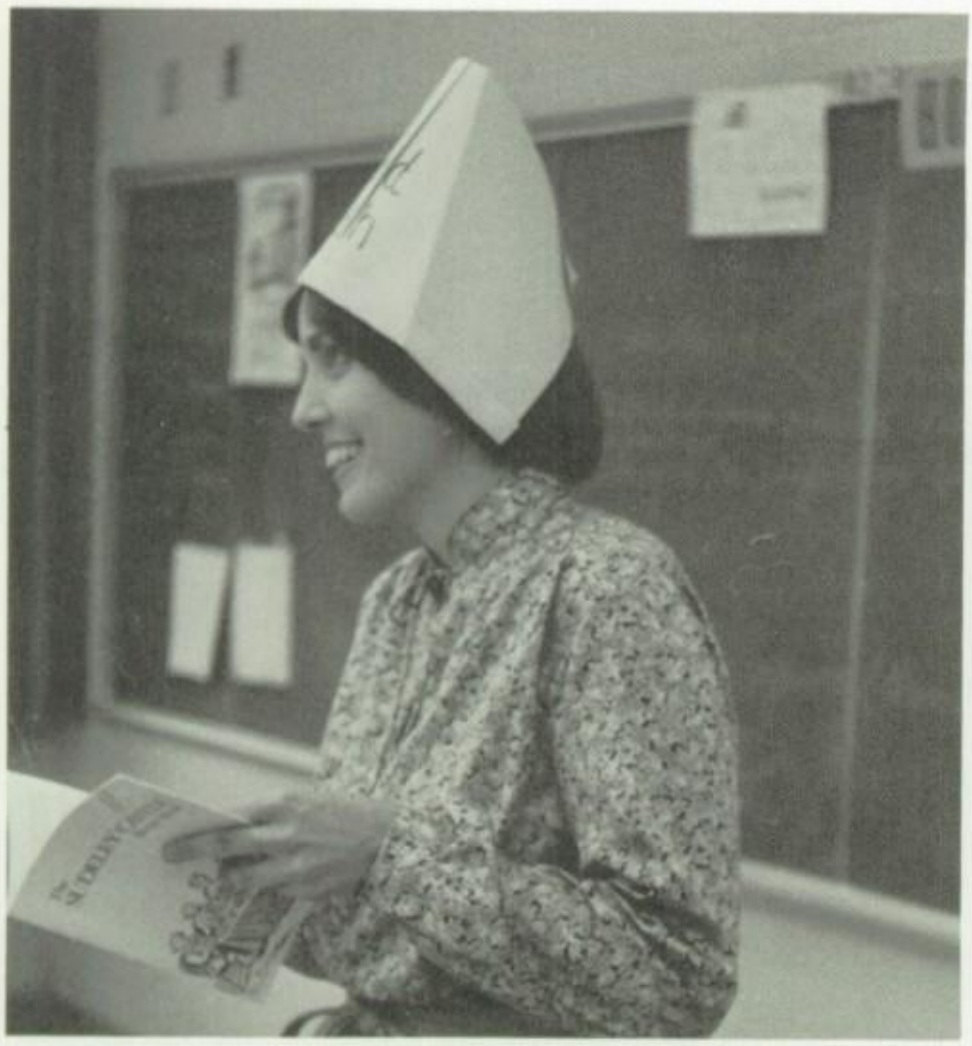


MRS. KAREN BROWN: field trip to Constitution Hall in D.C. with high school Glee Club and after seeing the opera "Madame Butterfly" I had my picture taken backstage with the star of the opera and it was in the Washington Post; playing on the varsity basketball team; Senior princess in the May Day program; voted Best Dressed and Best Dancer for Senior Superlatives; I remember traveling from Oregon to Virginia in a car during WW II when tires were rationed. We had a flat tire every so many miles!



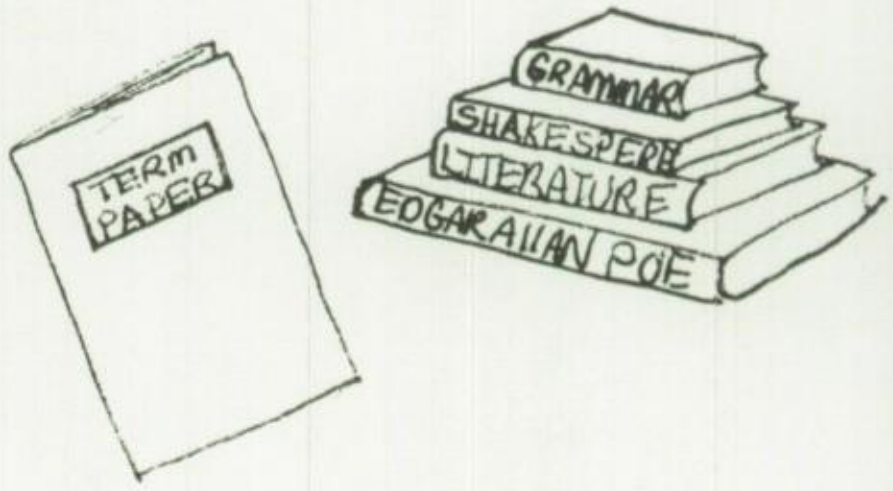


MR. ARTHUR STREET: atomic bomb-war's end; Missouri State Basketball Championship; Senior Follies musical comedy; renting dump truck to groups for "hay rides" on weekends; weekly "Boxing Smokers" of school's disruptive students.

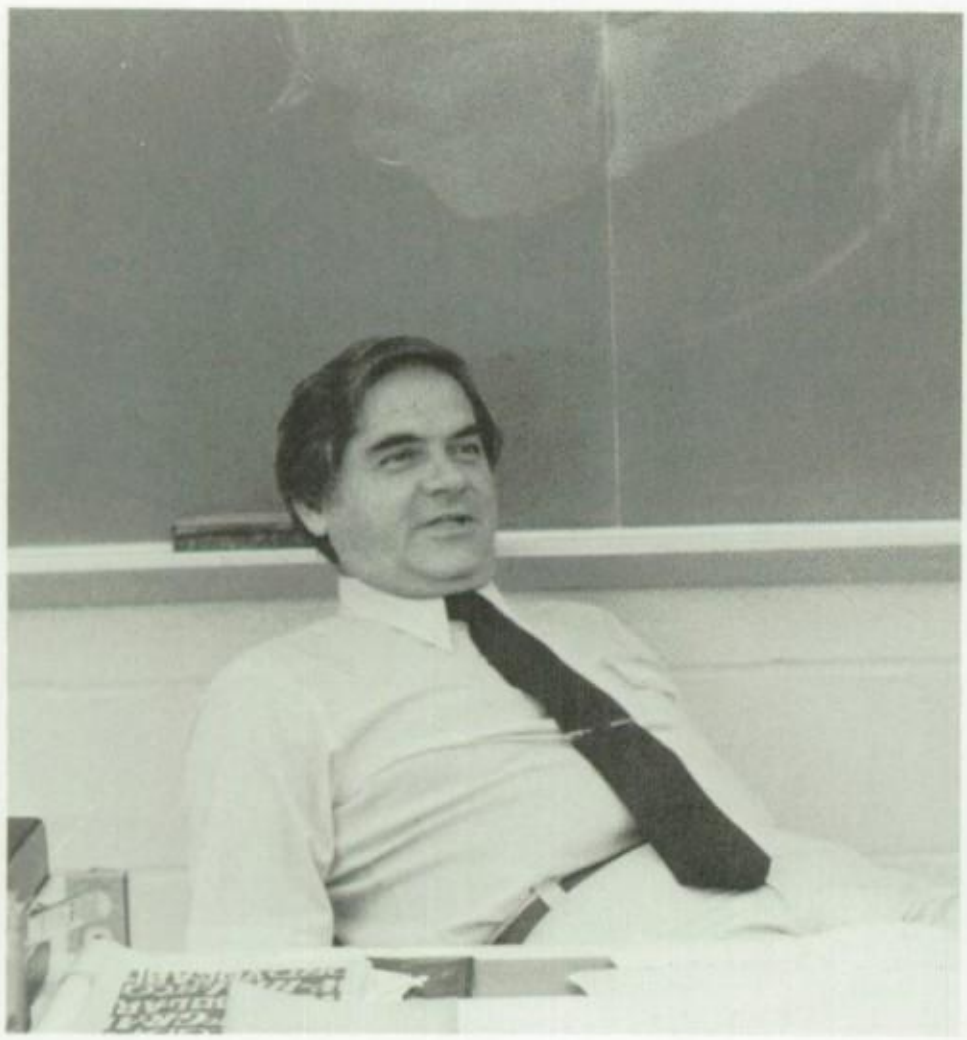


MISS NANCY BROWN: putting the school newspaper "to bed"; being nicknamed "Radio" in the notorious club ruled by "Monster", "Lippo", "Slurpo", "Clyde the Camel", and "Ahab the Arab"; listening to anything sung or breathed by the Kingston Trip; following the Kennedy-Nixon election and the Cuban Missile Crisis with much apprehension.

Through the years, literature has become very important to man. In all languages literature has been created and enjoyed. One can extend himself and his world through the use of the world of words. He can go forward to the future or relive the past. Whatever he chooses, he will experience something valued by all — learning.



MR. JOHN BURTON

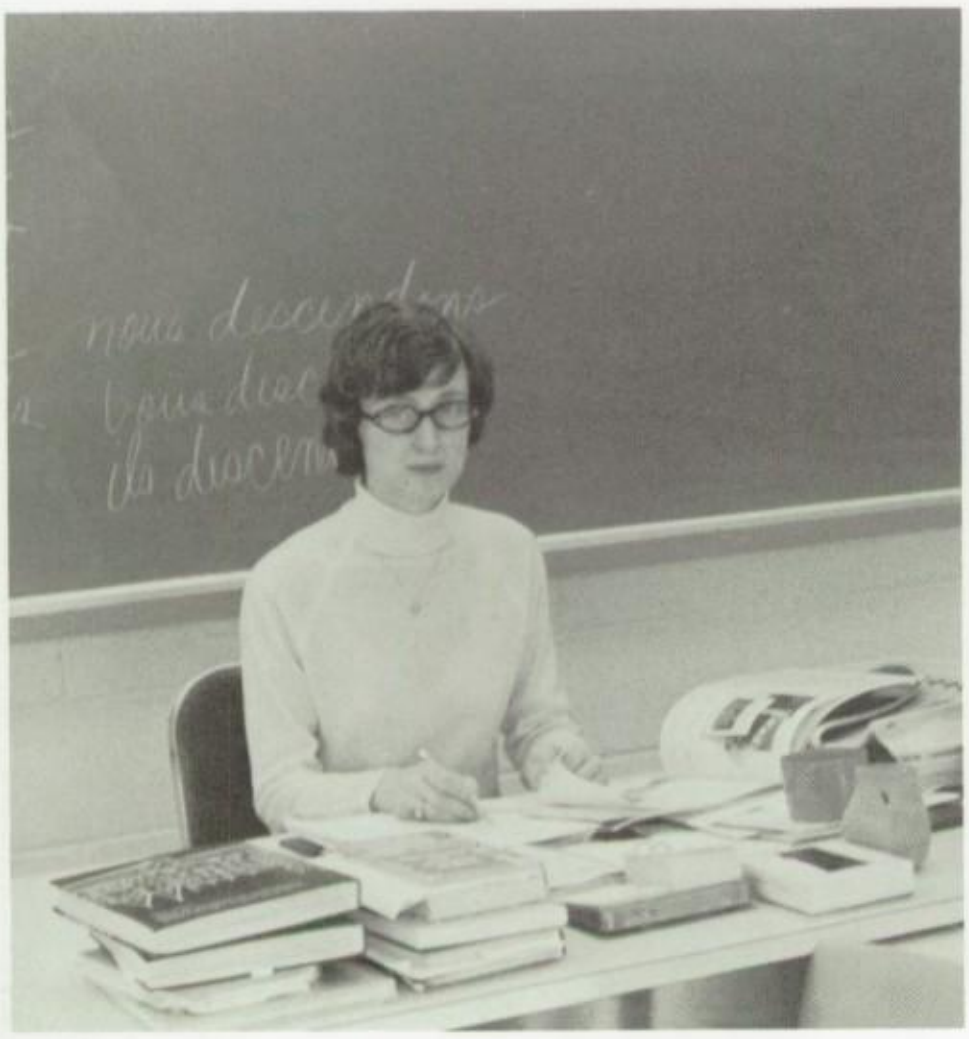


MISS SUSAN CANNON

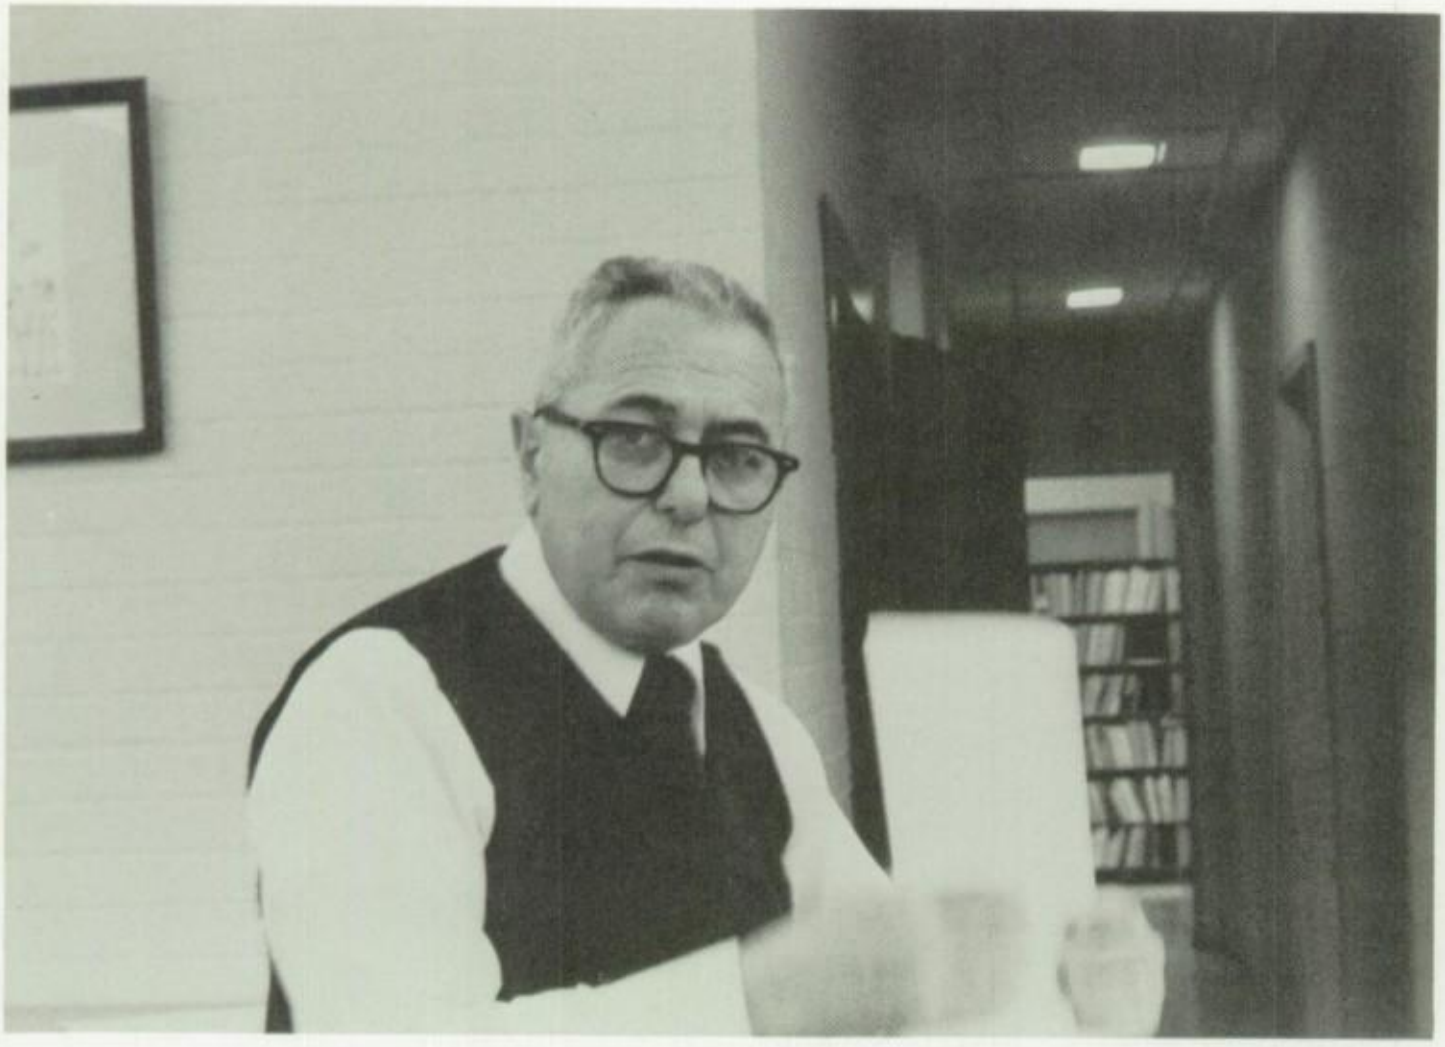
You call that a term paper?

MRS. BECKY BUTLER: playing on an undefeated varsity basketball team; getting Lion's Cup for Most Outstanding Student; Graduating on Friday the 13th and being the last one to receive my diploma: Young!

MISS JEANETTE COMER

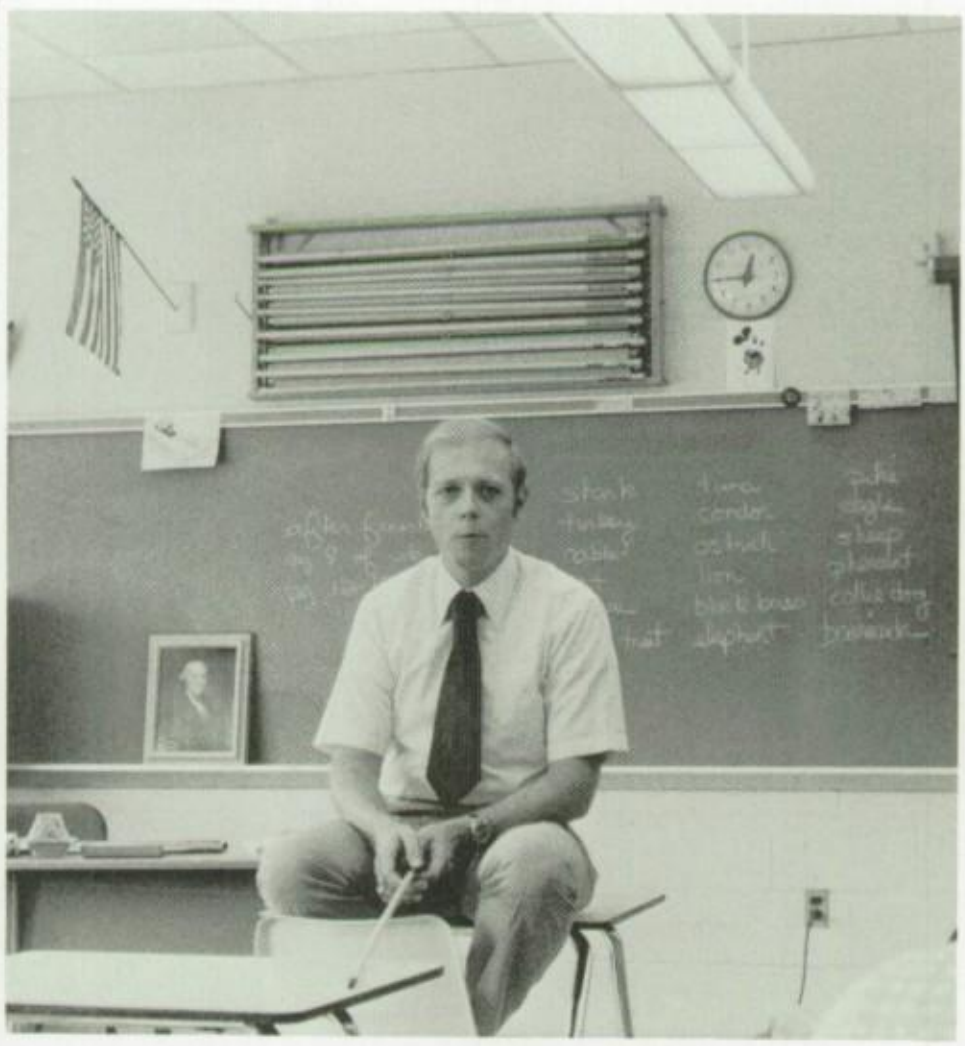


MRS. HELEN PRICE: the senior play; singing with the Madrigals at the National Cathedral; graduation



MR. OSWALD BLATT: skiing in the Alps with my classmates; being in the play "A Midsummer Night's Dream"!

History has always been one of man's greatest links with the past. Through history we learn of the events and occurrences of previous years. For each moment we live, a moment in history is created. As we live today, we become the history of the future, just as those who lived yesterday are the history of today. With each new day a new page of history is written.

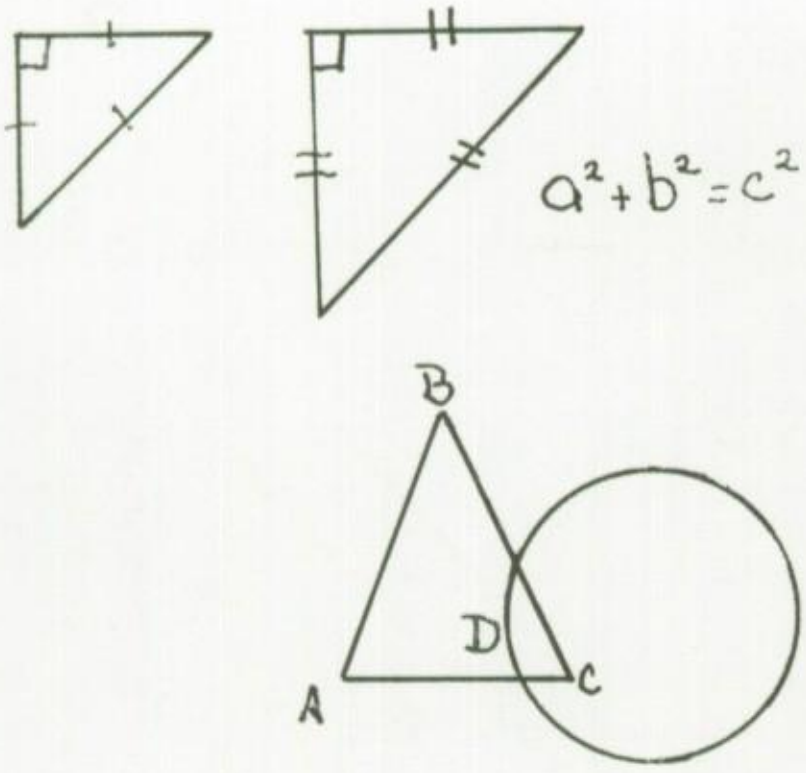


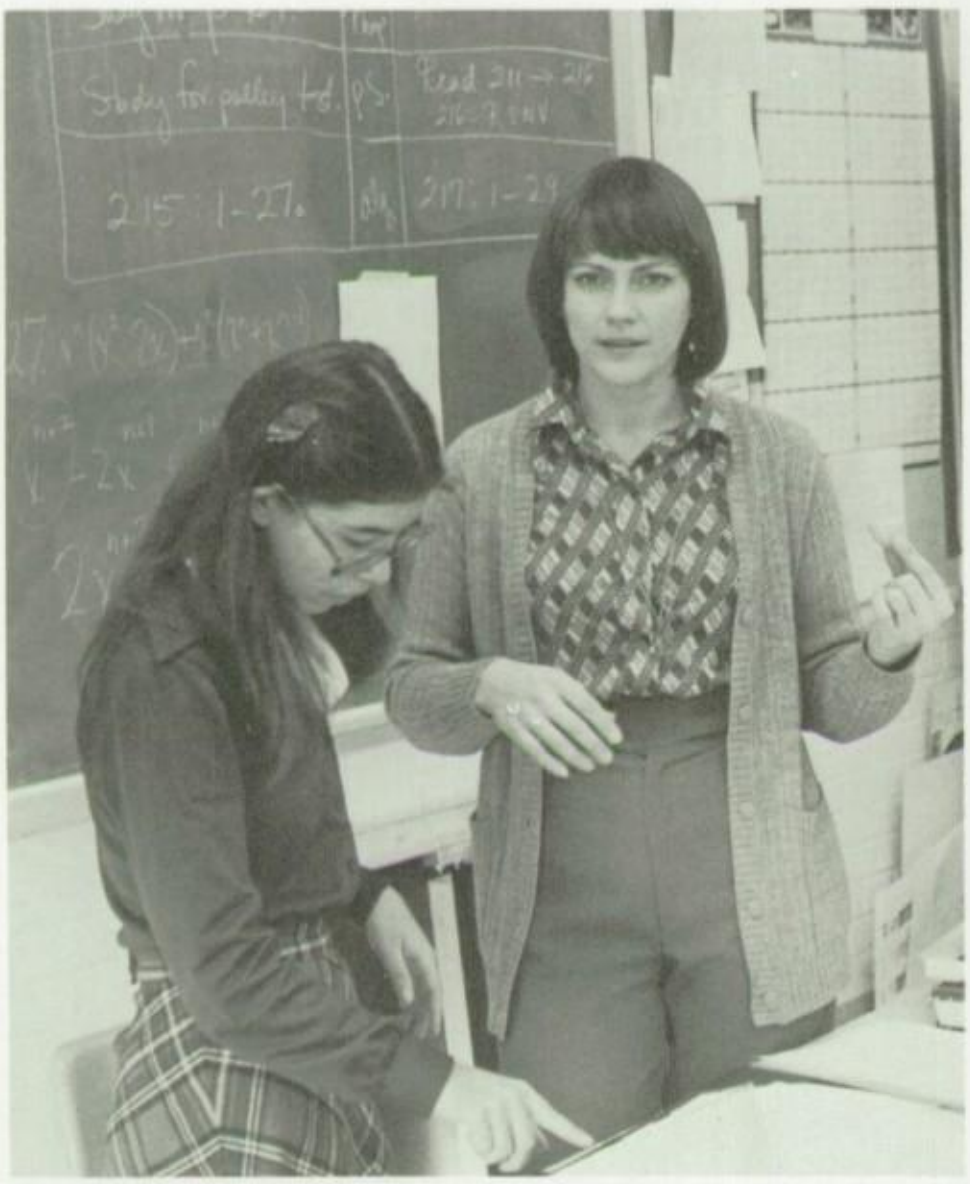
MR. WAYNE CRAIG: Junior-Senior after prom; basketball games; cafeteria work and study hall

MRS. CANDRA CRAIG: being on the yearbook staff; the Senior Prom and the parties afterwards; having my own car!

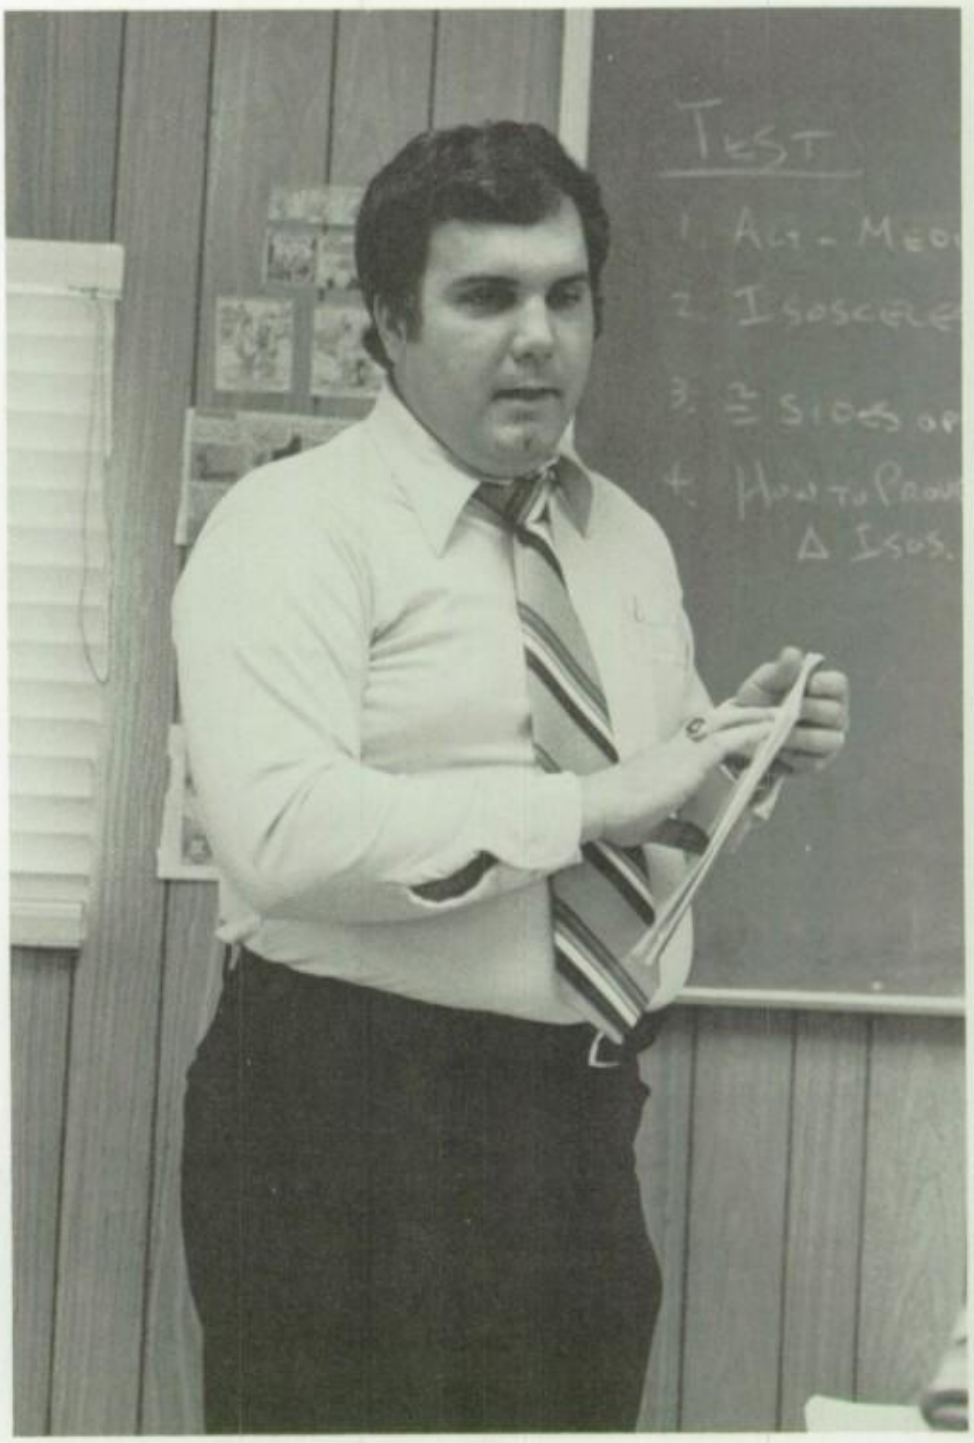
MR. JIM CARLSON: getting a date with Jeannie Hamilton after many efforts — Heaven!; going to Ebbets Field (home of the Brooklyn Dodgers) during the war and getting in for 9 lbs of scrap metal — Heavy!; spending a weekend away, and for the first time, with mixed sexes — Happy!

MR. DON ALVEY: being elected Honor Society President and Senior Class Vice President; learning to write an expository paragraph; singing with Emmylou Harris.





MRS. FRAN FAYLOR: spending years looking for my lost white rabbit only to find out 20 years later that my Dad had to kill it because it was sick; always getting a shovel and bucket and running to the end of a rainbow to find gold only to have the rainbow disappear when I got close; finally being accepted by my peers during my senior year only because I got strong enough and self confident enough to tell them all where to go — Yeah independence!



MRS. JOYCE BARNES: uniforms; sock hops; Homecoming float.

MISS LINDA HURFF: a large group of friends my senior year (our parties including one progressive dinner); basketball and football games as spectators/practicing and playing in basketball, tennis, and softball; powderpuff football "under the lights"; musical school play.

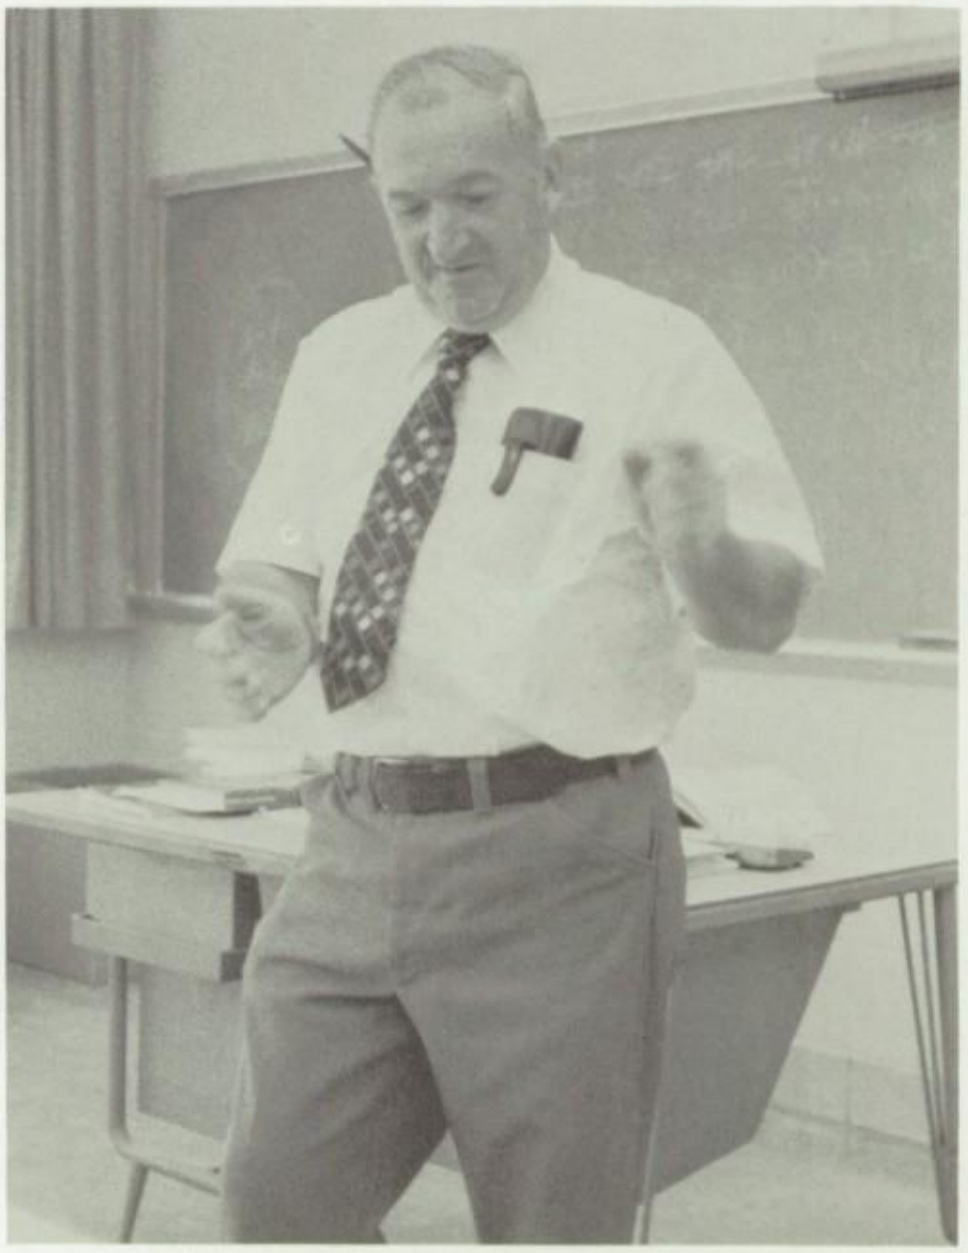
The concept of mathematics has been alive since time began. Man has always had the need to have a system of counting. Although our system of mathematics has become much more complicated, its basic methods have remained the same. As we keep developing our mathematical system, we will always rely on the proven facts of the past to supply the basis for those of the future.



MR. FRANK POTVIN: baseball season with a 14-1 record; death of a junior classmate in a car accident; graduation night.

MISS MARTHA BATCHELOR: the triple decker peanut butter and jelly sandwiches that the cafeteria always sold as a second choice lunch; all the work the Student-Faculty committee did to abolish the dress code and let the girls wear pants to school; the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game with Wissahikon H.S. that we always won!

MISS TERRY COSBY: playing softball during lunch; celebrating all my friends 18th birthdays when I was only 17; Senior Skip Day — the 74th day of the year 1974.

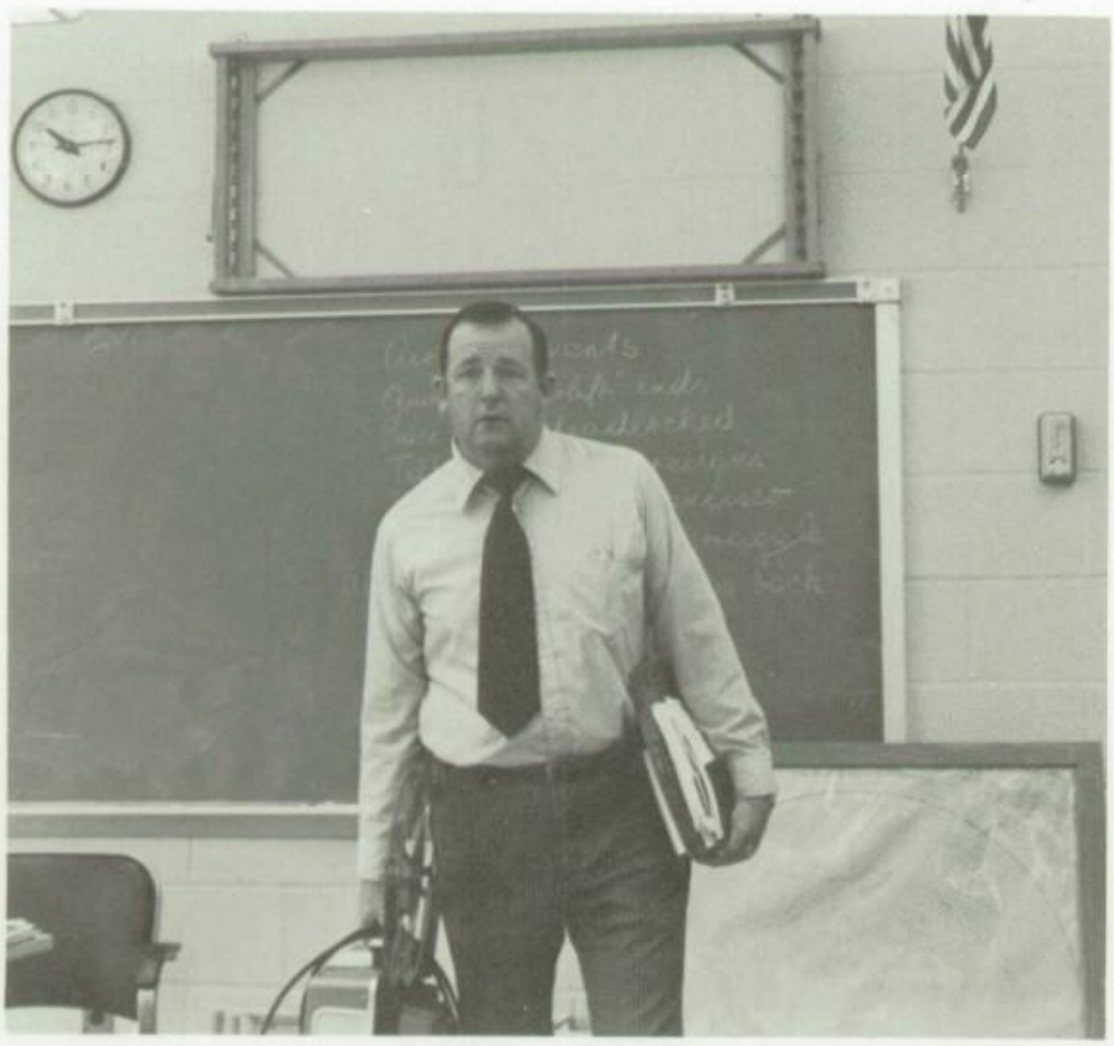
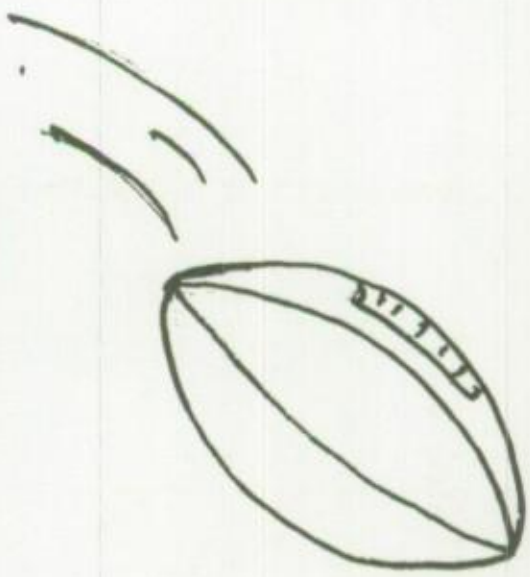
Science has been a part of our lives from the day we were born; life itself is a science. Although we are continually finding new facts and dreaming new dreams, we constantly rely on the facts of the past to make these dreams a reality. As we move forward in these fields, we remember those early scientists who made today's studies possible.

MISS DUTCHIN HARDIN: life long friends; "Milk Bar"; graduation activities.

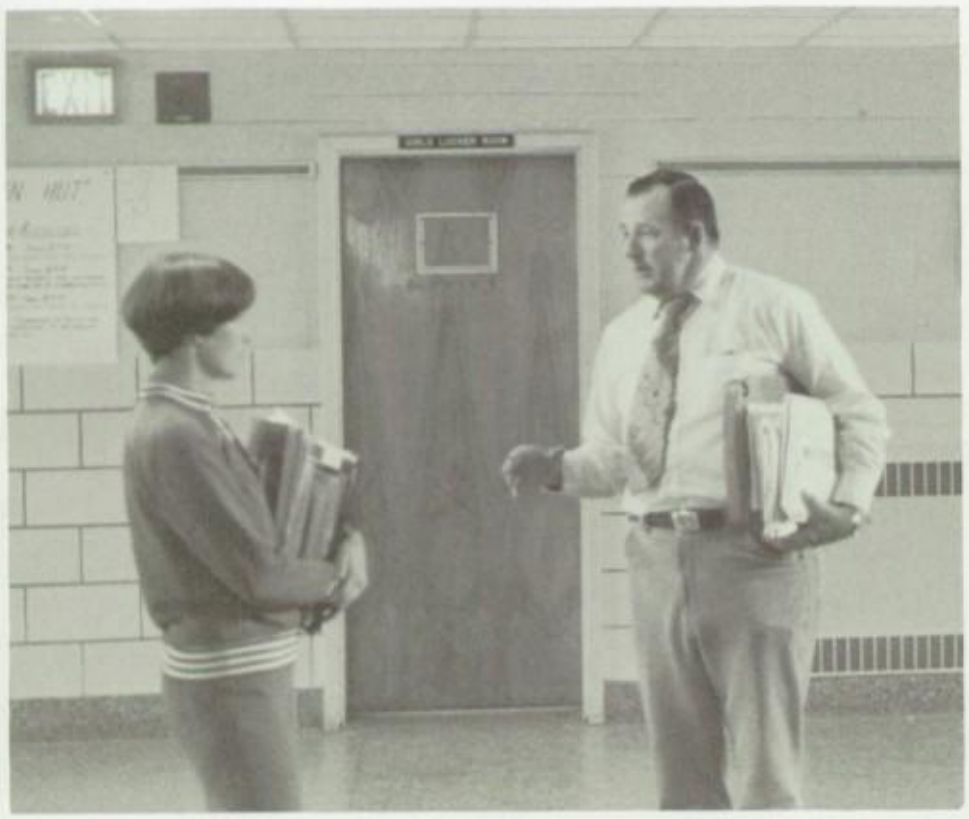
MRS. SANDRA KITCHIN

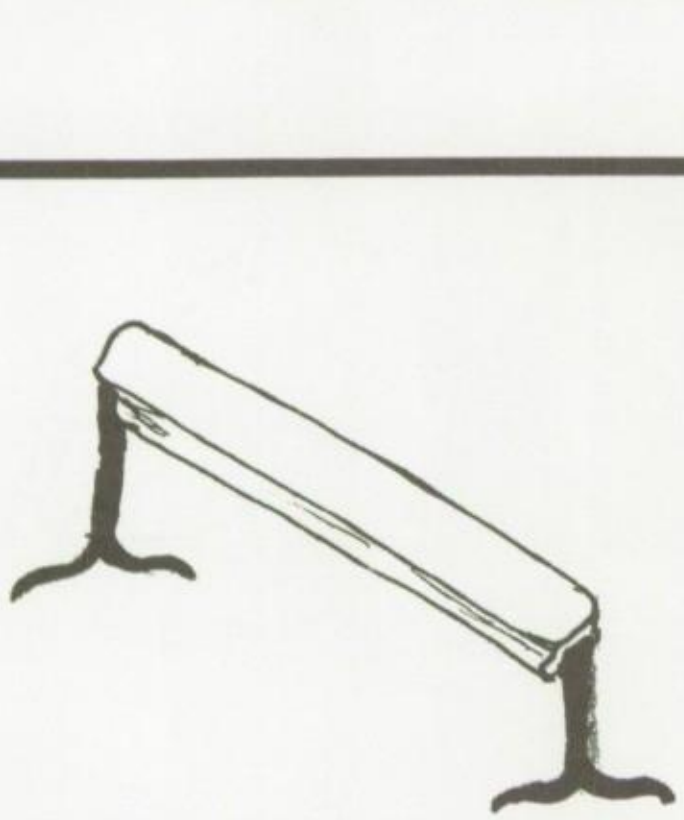




MR. GENE LEONARD

MR. KEN MESA: winning state championship; Junior-Senior Field Day; Beatles Era





MRS. JEANNETTE MOORE

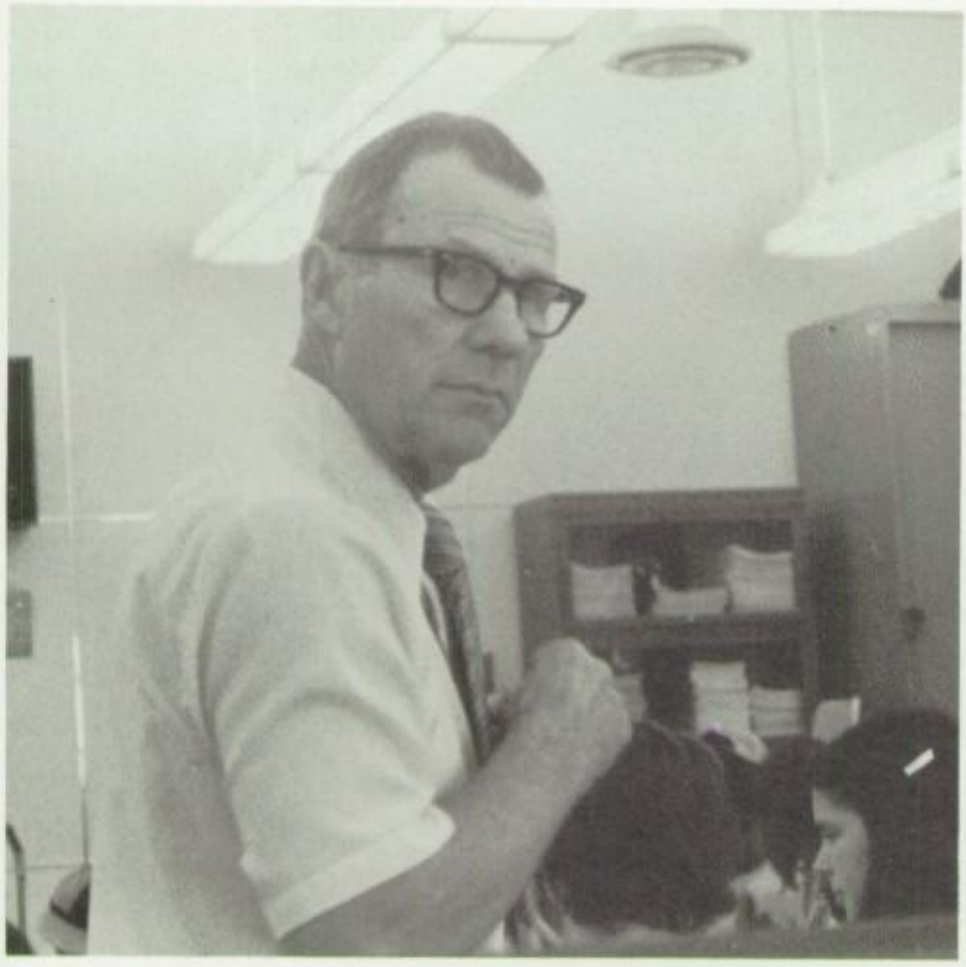
MISS PETSA STRATHOPOULOS: I remember: The teachers who introduced me to the wonder of learning new things: Miss Bessie — Literature, Miss Lottie — History, and Miss Ingram — Latin. I remember: Mr. Nicholas and Miss Crowder for being very special.

Art

Throughout the history of mankind's existence, art has been one of the most beautiful means of his expression. As man changed, so did his art. Since these changes reflected a change in man, art has always been one of the most interesting resources of history. Art can express the actual emotion of the human race rather than the mere facts of man's existence. Therefore, as one looks back on the days gone by, he must also look back on the art created.

Students' art on display

See — this is how it's done!



MR. ROSS S. WHITEHEAD: The fondest recollections are of my participating in the band and the training I received. So many of my friends are still involved in music and in teaching. Another fond recollection is that I met my wife while in high school. The varied activities of music, playing with a circus band, major symphony, dance bands and other forms of entertainment are still vivid memories.

Music

Man has always loved entertainment, and music is one of its most popular forms. Before the age of television and motion pictures, music was one of the chief means of entertaining. Even with the great expansion of the world of entertainment the force and popularity of music has continued to grow.

MR. BILL WOODFORD

Industrial Arts was, at one time, unheard of in the classroom. In the past, what we now know as Industrial Arts was merely considered as a trade. But it has been recognized as a teachable art to be passed on into the future.

Although it is considered by most to be just a cooking and sewing class, Home Economics covers a wide range of useful subjects. In the past, it was up to the wives and mothers to teach their daughters to keep house. But today, Home Economics is a field for men and women alike, covering much more than keeping house, and it will continue to branch out into all aspects of life.

The Class of '79 — not an ordinary senior class by any means!

Among us were the usual scholars, athletes and musicians, yet there was something quite special about us. The Seniors of '79 held high goals and with our perseverance we could do anything. We have proven this in past years. Being a junior meant working toward the prom. Greenery sales and football concessions paved the way to a memorable May 20, 1978. We will remember our theme music from the Goodbye Girl played by the band Spring Fever, but we will also remember our hassle with the Class of '78 when our secrets got out. When we weren't planning the prom we kept busy with other important things such as choosing class rings.

History and chemistry tests were never as difficult as was deciding from among 12 stones and 3 settings. Finally the decisions were made and we waited eagerly for our rings to arrive. Then began the ritual of turning our precious emblems of rising superiority. Little did we know how much it would hurt after 79 turns! Life as a junior was not all fun and games. We had our struggles with Algebra II problems and endless English discussions on Thoreau. And of course, one has not lived if he has never experienced the 2 foot jump one makes when Mr. Craig begins to pound his rock on his desk. During the past two years we have broadened our cultural horizons considerably with trips to see "Camelot," "My Fair Lady" and "Oliver" at the Lazy Susan Inn. Our senior year we even dared to venture to the theatres of Washington, D.C. to see Carol Channing in "Hello, Dolly!" and a performance of the Nutcracker Suite ballet. But most characteristic of us was our zaniness. We enjoyed the traditional privilege of leaving early for lunch and we went even further than that. Lunchtime pep rallies and delicious feasts surely made the underclassmen stare in envy (or maybe it was disbelief!). At Christmas time, our creativity came forth in our door decoration. Truly a staggering sight to behold, but not until the holly was added! Yet we were not alone in our crazy antics — we had the world's best for sponsors. Mrs. Faylor and Miss Hurff. We will never forget them and we can be sure that they will never be able to forget us!!!

The Devil Warriors is a small team, memberwise. However it has spirit and determination, which are evident in the victories the team won this year.

Eugene Jones, who broke two school records — individual tackles for one game (18) and total tackles for the season (83) — was chosen by the team as the Outstanding Back. Bill Slavens was elected Outstanding Linesman, and Will Gutherie was awarded Sportmanship.

"Friends of the Needy"

Business Club works closely with the NJHS because of the same loyal and busy sponsor, Mrs. Julie Steger. During November this club brought in canned goods to help stock the shelves at Navy Relief. They also brought sunshine into the lives of several handicapped children by visiting them. During this trip to Independent Hill School, they played, sang and had a party with the children. They plan many more activities like bringing in clothes, games and selling baked goods for the needy.

The International Club has been very busy this year. A representative from the Organization of American States came to explain about the OAS, its history, and functions. They discovered Mexico through the eyes of a visiting Mexican. Each year, the International Club holds a language competition to find out which language has "the most brains." This competition is between the French, Spanish, Latin and English students.

As in years past, several students from this club take a field trip to either France or Spain with their sponsors Ms. Comer and Mrs. Price. These students spend eight unforgettable days in Europe.

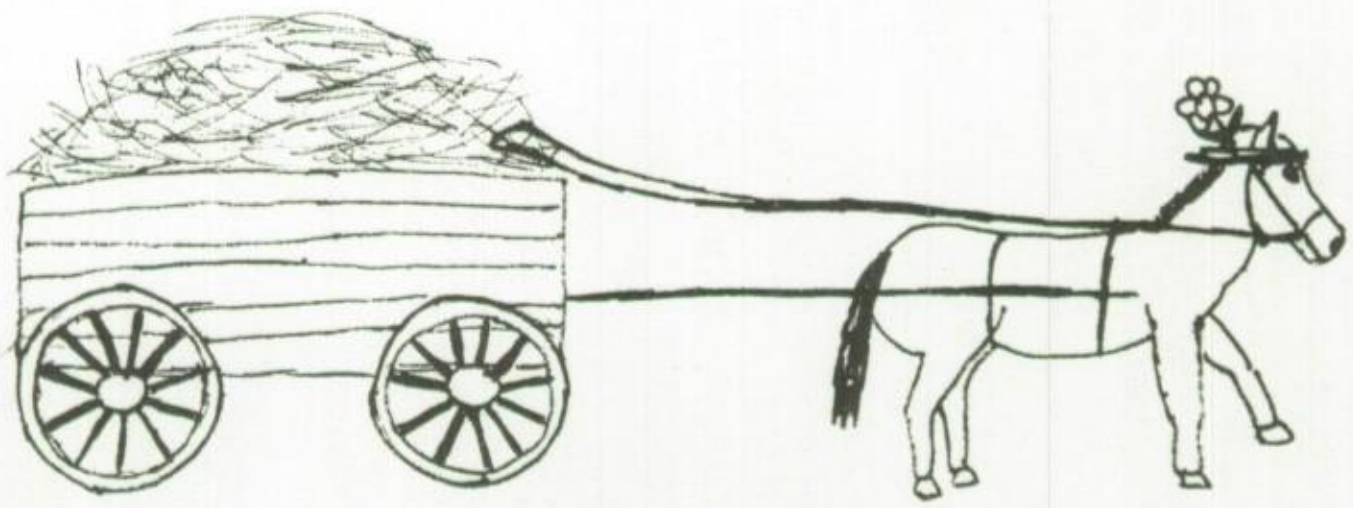
The Donkey That Pulls The Hay Wagon

Officers — Parliamentarian B. Barry, V. Pres. — J. Tiede, Pres — B. Palmer, Sec. — T. Hagan (not shown) Treasurer — T. Brown.

Without the SCA, we would not be able to pull our haywagon. This group of energetic kids led by their organized sponsor, Mrs. Faylor, has planned and successfully performed a marvelous homecoming and half-time show. Spirit week with its different activities was enjoyed by students and faculty alike. With the support of the entire school, this group has helped Navy Relief by collecting canned goods. To get us all into the Christmas spirit a door decoration contest was held. A reward was offered to the best door created by a homeroom. The carnival, where young and old alike have fun, gets everyone "into the act." Quantico High School would not be able to survive without the superb job of the SCA.



Student Cooperative Association

Senators — 1st row: 11th gr. P. Krause, 7th gr. B. Pierzchala, 2nd row: 12th gr. J. Bateman, 10th gr. E. Trainor, 3rd row: 9th gr. B. Baker, 8th gr. G. Oler.

The SCA is composed of four major groups. The officers who are in charge of controlling all meetings approve all actions taken by the SCA. The senators are responsible for their entire grade and conduct class activities. The representatives are the spokesmen for each homeroom. They are to tell the students exactly what is going on in the SCA. All three of these groups come together on their weekly meeting day, Wednesday. Last but not least are the students of the school. If all the groups do not work together the SCA would die.

Homeroom representatives — 1st row: L. Paul, J. Leer, J. Haas, S. Crone, T. Pierzchala, L. Vogler, K. Kelly. 2nd row: K. Marshall, D. Leonardo, L. Fullerton, C. Gibson, S. Hagan, G. Wellington, F. Dear Staff,

We would like to thank you sincerely for the great work you have done on the 1979 Boondocker. We experienced problems throughout the year, but every yearbook staff does. Problems are quickly forgotten; the good memories remain. Class editors should be extremely proud of their sections and the work done by special editors will be appreciated by everyone.

We also express our appreciation to our new advisors, Miss Cosby and Mrs. Grey. Sponsoring a yearbook for the first time is not an easy task, but they did a superb job leading us. Without their persistence the yearbook might never have come into existence.

As you look back on this book, surely you will remember not only all the hard work that was put into creating our family album but also all the fun that we had.

Sincerely yours,

Adrienne Hoppmeyer

The Boondockers

This year we had co-editors, Anne-Marie Martin and Adrienne Hoppmeyer. They were always busy helping everyone.

Our art editor Jill was always being stuck with last minute art work but she always managed to do a great job.

Even though we all had our separate duties, everyone pitched in to help one another.

Our beloved sponsor Ms. Cosby. She put up with us through our trials and tribulations and corrected all our blunders with patience. She was always there to lend a helping hand.

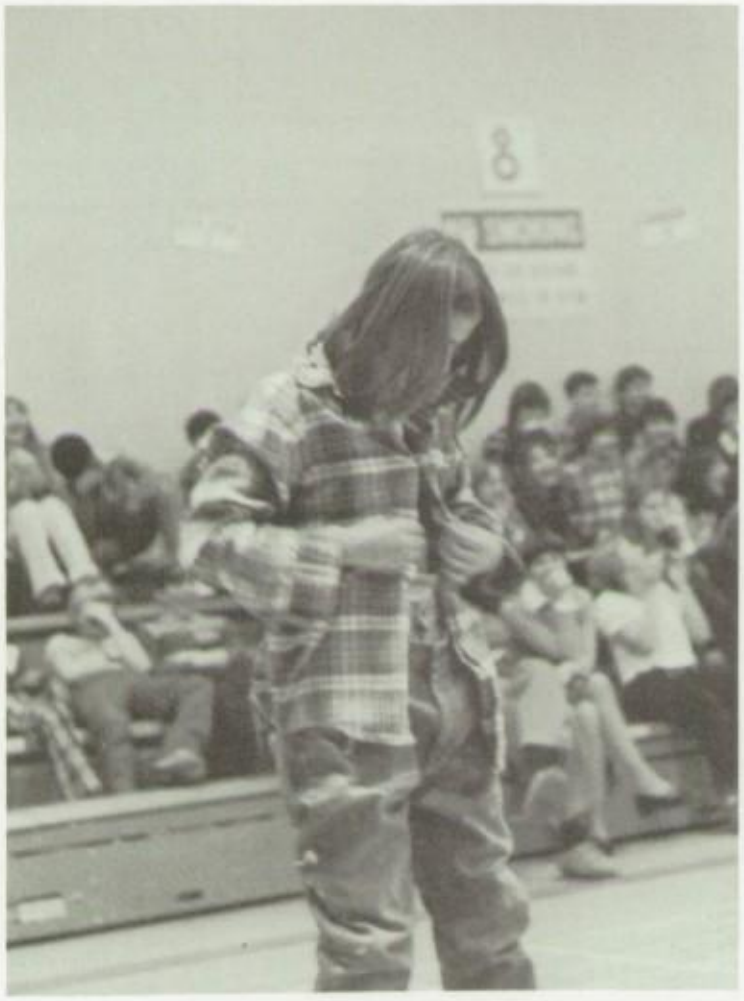
For the past six years SCA has set one day a year for a battle to take place over who is the better sex, Males or Females. This battle has been given the name of "The Battle Of The Sexes."

The first two years of these battles (1973 and 1974) were conquered by the females but then in 1975 the males came along and gained the title. The females made a come back the next year and regained their title. Yet in the past two years the males have conquered the battles and tied the total tallys to 3 wins for the females and 3 wins for the males. So next year will have to be the year to decide which sex is better.

BATTLE OF THE SEXES



One of the new events this year was the clothes race; here Michelle Michalick and Robert Wellington race to beat the clock.

Roy Lague and Jan Tiede eating a lemon; skin and all.

"Goodbye Doesn't Mean Forever"

Even after all the problems surrounding the '78 Prom, the Junior Class produced a real winner.

Beth Gibson as Chairperson was pleased to announce Miss Robin Luke as Queen.

The band Spring Fever provided great music to create a memorable evening.

Christmas Wonderland

Every year foreign students from around the world visit Quantico for a year with their families or guardians. Their fathers or guardians are foreign officers studying at MCDEC as an international cooperative aggrement between the U.S. and their countries.

The countries where they are from vary in location and cultures. Komson and Tippewon Sookshawee are brother and sister from Bankok, Thailand. JoAnna and Jessica Unda are sisters from Ecuador. Ziad Al-Hamad is from Kuqait. Maria Rosario Alvavez is from Colombia. Maria Elena and Olga Huncal (not pictured here) are sisters from Venezuela.

International Flight

Scott Cook, Bev Barry and Will Gutherie guided the tour through Spain, France, Mexico and Tropical Islands of the West Indies.

Under the direction of Mrs. Price and Miss Comer the advanced language students portrayed the lifestyle of foreign lands, through song and dance. The play depicts and ensuing argument between a Frenchman and a Spainard over the qualities of their homelands. The arguement was resolved when both agreed that each country was special in its own way. For the grand finale the entire cast sang "Let Their Be Peace On Earth."

Boys' and girls' state is an organization which picks the "cream of the crop" of rising seniors and involves them in a model government where they become aware of how state and national legislatures are run. The students are screened by American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary members then possibly are selected to go to a convention where they are elected to hold political seats such as senators or governors. This year Ginny Haas went even further to be elected to Girl's nation where she was appointed "Commandant of the Marine Corps." These students often receive scholarships from colleges.

Ginny

In an average high school, there are basically two stypes of students — participants and non-participants, and Quantico's students are no different. There are those who come to school and go home, never realizing that there are things happening after 2:30. There are also those who know very well what goes on after school, finding themselves involved in several extra-curricular activities daily. Senior, Ginny Haas, has distinguished herself not only by becoming involved with QHS "goings on" but has also become involved with happenings on a state level by competing and winning the title of Virginia's Junior Miss.

Ginny originally heard about the County Junior Miss program while at Girl's State. Not interested in the program personally, she inquired about the contest hoping some of her friends might want to enter. It was a great shock to Ginny when the pageant officials called and asked HER to compete for the county title. Taking it somewhat lightly, Ginny said yes. Then to Ginny's surprise she was crowned Prince William County's Junior Miss. Several weeks later she went to Roanoke for the state competition. Anxiously Quantico waited for Saturday night's crowning of the winner. When all the votes had been cast and counted Ginny was unanimously selected to be Virginia's Junior Miss. In April, she competed with forty nine other girls for the national title of America's Junior Miss. Something that was formerly "Just another T.V. program" became important to us all. We were all able to have one of our own to root for.

All of us at QHS are very proud of Ginny; she is the first QHS'er to participate in, much less win, a Junior Miss Pageant. And we all know she'll keep winning in whatever she does. We are all behind you Ginny; go get'em!!!!

Congratulations to Ginny Haas, Deanne Hoppmeyer, Jeanne Marsh, and Jan Tiede, Quantico's Blue Ribbon Winners. This year you have been vital to our life at QHS and we the faculty, thank you.

Ms. Nancy Brown

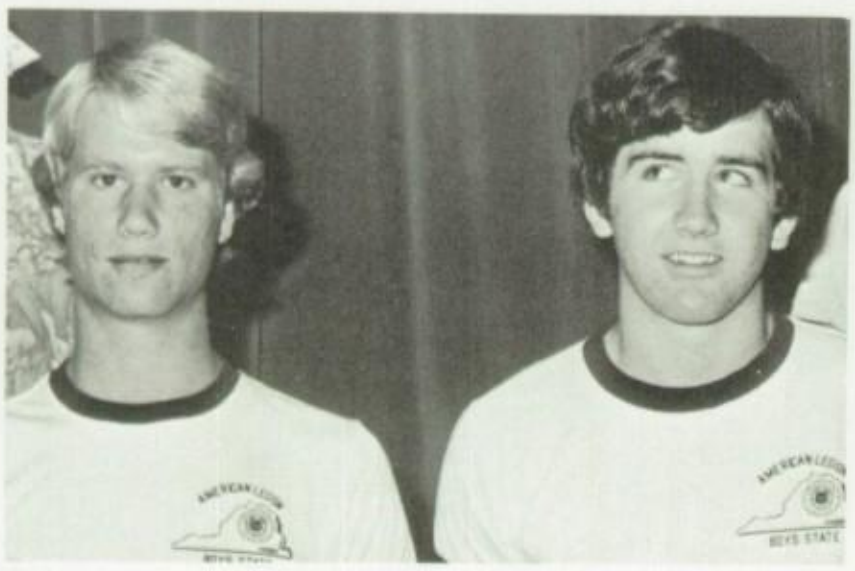
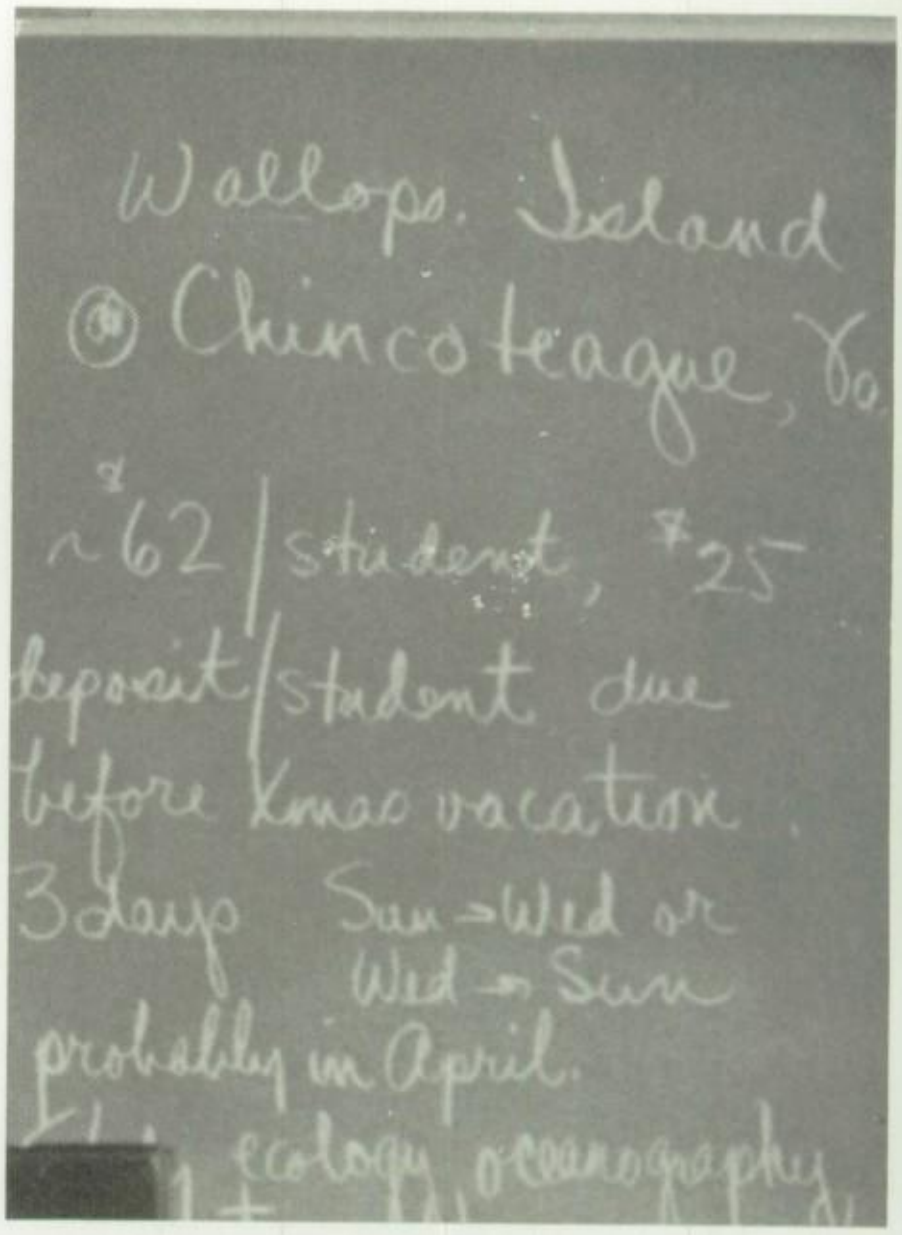
It has been a very fast year and now, now that the halls are empty for the summer and we, the Class of '79 have graduated, all we have left are a few memories . . .





. . . a formal diploma

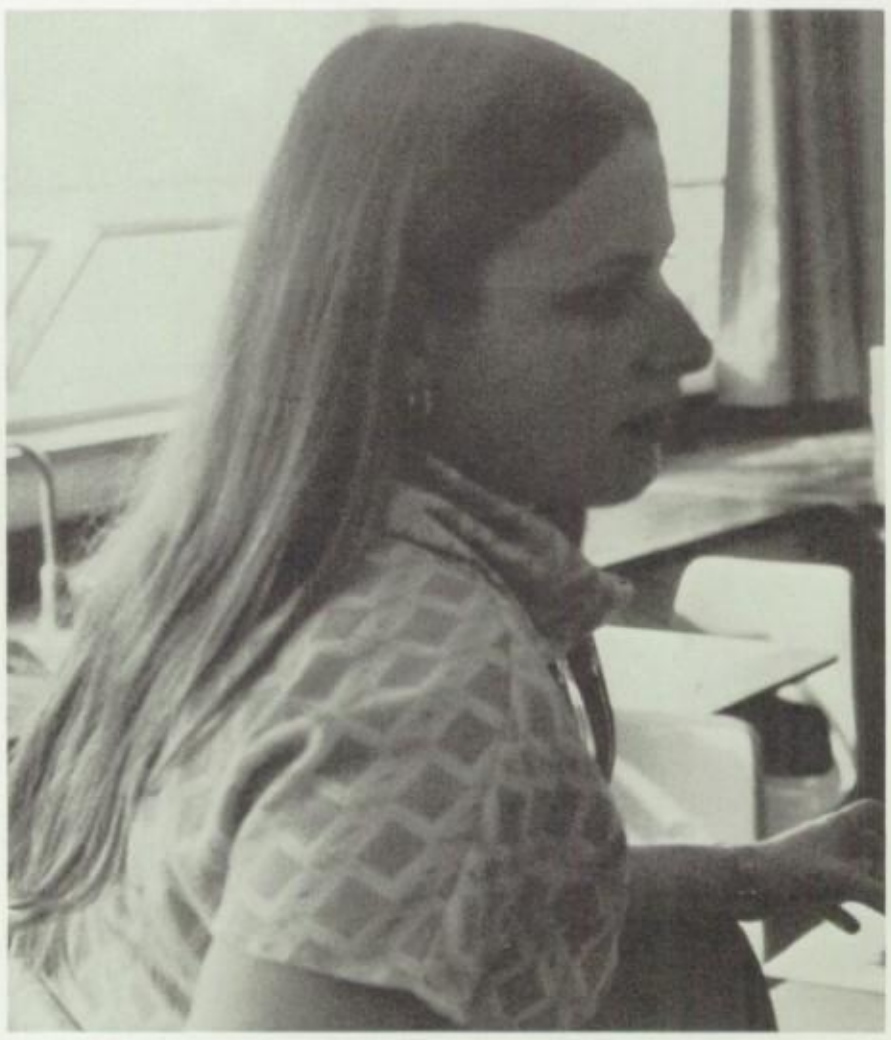
. . . and this book, Your Boondocker 1979.

This book will be used again and again to remember . . .

. . .a special day,

. . .a certain face,

. . .the spirit of a game,



. . . remember their name,

. . .retain just some of the fun that befell the halls of QHS.

We have gone through many

. . .trials

and tribulations

. . .just to get where we are today –

GRADUATED

– finished,

such a strange

and funny
word,

for actually,
We're
just beginning.

– The Class of 1979

Sitting here in our dismal classes, we find our minds wandering to the snow – crested scenery outside the window. We remember that cloudy day, during one of Mr. Blatt's daily sermons, you announced that all you wanted was one, good snow and hopefully, it would come soon. Today, even though it's here, it is still not the same because you are not here to enjoy it with us.

We've painfully discovered that death is a "triumphant defeat." For it was your death at such an "untimely age" that made us stop and realize the things in our own lives that must be changed.

Ralph, thank you for the wonderful memories that you have left us. They will always be remembered . . .
